

INFORMED CONSENT

All of the therapists at IPNB Psychotherapy of Austin are Interns and Associates holding temporary licenses issued by their respective state boards and under the supervision of Juliane Taylor Shore, LPC S, LMFT S. An LPC Intern and/or LMFT Associate is a professional who has completed a master's degree in the field of counseling and/or marriage and family therapy and has completed a minimum of 100 hours of clinical work prior to graduation. After graduation, all of those who want to become fully licensed professionals must complete an additional 3000 hours of supervised work. The clinician you are about to see is in the process of gaining those 3000 hours.

As part of their supervision, your therapist will be receiving ongoing case consultation and training from Juliane Taylor Shore, LPC S, LMFT S. As part of this process, your therapist will discuss your case in supervision. Ms. Shore upholds all of the same confidentiality and limits to confidentiality regarding your case as does your therapist (See "Client Agreement" and "Privacy Notice" for more information).

FAQ

How much experience does my therapist have?

Your therapist has already completed their graduate degree and has over 100 hours of clinical practice behind them, some of our therapists are just starting their internships and others are nearing the end of their 3000 hours, please feel free to ask your therapist about his or her experience if you are curious.

At many Internship training sites, clients have to transfer therapists, will that happen to me?

Unlike many internship sites, IPNB Psychotherapy of Austin is a training spot for those who want to begin their own practices, therefore all of our clinicians are free to continue seeing their own clients when they leave IPNB Psychotherapy. If you would like to continue to see your therapist in their new office after they leave IPNB Psychotherapy feel free to do so.

What can I do if I run into a problem with my therapist?

If you have any issues or concerns with your therapist or the therapy you are receiving here please feel free to contact Juliane Taylor Shore at 512-653-0564 or via email at julianetaylorshore@gmail.com

If my case gets talked about in supervision what will be discussed?

The purpose of discussing cases in supervision is to help your clinician become better with treatment planning and the interventions they use in session with you. We may discuss what might work in session or what may be confusing or difficult for your therapist in their work with you so that they can better serve you. They will discuss some of the details of your case but will keep the disclosures as anonymous as possible leaving out names, places of employment and other identifying features.

I understand that I am seeing an Intern and/or Associate who is in clinical supervision.
